MINI FLOOD—Water was a foot deep on Dunbar Avenue near US-90 in Bay St. Louis Friday evening after an automobile struck a fire plug and burst a water main. The water rises to just a couple of inches of the front entrance of Mailfoto Camera Center and Dunbar Package Liquor Store, top photo. The broken fire hydrant was just across the street from the stores. Cars plow through flooded streets, below, just before the Bay Police Department closed the thoroughfare. City crews managed to stop the gushing leak before water rose into the nearby stores. Bay Police Chief Douglas Williams reports his office received a call at 1:48 p.m. Friday from the Majik Market store manager reporting the broken fire plug and water flooding the street. Williams said about 45 minutes later, Bonnie Grant of Louisville Apartments in Bay St. Louis drove to the police station to report she hit the fire plug. The police chief said the woman was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and causing damage. At 2:53 p.m. the same day, Bay police received a call from Jo Ann Plaisance at 418 Main Street reporting an automobile hit her house. Williams said Patrolman Russell Watts responded to the call and discovered Grant had also apparently struck the side of a vehicle driven Timothy Favre, hit a utility pole, broke a water meter, hit a chain-link fence and ran into the house. Grant was then charged by Watts with failure to yield the right-of-way, causing damage and reckless driving. Williams said the compact automobile driven by Grant sustained heavy damage and had to be towed away by wrecker, but no injuries were reported in the mishaps. Bay St. Louis workmen were called to work from their Thanksgiving vacation to repair the broken fire hydrant and water meter. Numerous residents between US-90 and Main Street, and along Dunbar and adjacent streets were without water until after 10 p.m. Friday night. Bay Patrolmen responding to the accidents were Watts, Harris Boudreaux, Larry Ladner, Gordon Campbell and Investigator Matt Karl, who is conducting an investigation. (Staff photos by Ellis Cuevas).

County, Coast leaders to meet Wednesday

Local officials still skeptical of regional wastewater plan

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Gulf Coast Regional Wastewater Treatment Authority officials are scheduled to attend a Wednesday night meeting with Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District representatives.

Waveland Mayor John Longo, chairman of the local district, said, "The Gulf Coast people are meeting with us to discuss what they will offer for the facilities we now have."

"We will listen to what they have to offer," Longo stated, but he indicated Waveland, Hancock County and possibly Bay St. Louis will for their own district.

The Waveland district, which is scheduled to include Waveland, Hancock County and Bay St. Louis, was created by state legislation last year. Legislation was also passed for a Gulf Coast Regional Wastewater Treatment Authority which includes Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties.

The Waveland district officials met in early November and elected Longo as chairman; County Board of Supervisors' President A.A. (Dolph) Kellar as co-chairman; Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett as treasurer; and Waveland Alderman Barbara Rappold as recording secretary.

In a second meeting of the local district Tuesday, Longo reported that they were 'moving ahead' with plans for the local district.

In addition to Waveland, the supervisors in favor of the local district.

Kellar said, "The supervisors are on record as supporting the Waveland district."

Mayor Bennett of Bay St. Louis, which has not openly opposed the tri-county district, stated, "I have never been in favor of the coast regional plan. The council wanted to keep the door open on a regional or a local program."

"We can do this on a local level and save money," Bennett added.

Bay St. Louis is the only governmental body in Hancock County to appropriate 'start-up' funds for the coastwide authority.

The Bay Council was unanimous in their vote to contribute funds and Bennett felt he could not 'back it'.

The three governmental leaders in Hancock County, "Feel the obligations for a tri-county wastewater treatment authority are far to great for Hancock residents to participate in because a cost of up to $200 million with only one percent of the return is not fair."

In a Gulf Coast Regional Wastewater Treatment Authority report in September, 1980, the estimated cost for the tri-county system is $123 million.

Waveland's wastewater treatment plant, which opened in 1975, occupies three acres of a 40-acre site.

Longo said, "The facility was constructed for Waveland with intentions of it being a regional site. With only three acres in use out of 40, it is more than large enough to handle all of Hancock County's wastewater."

The Waveland mayor reported Waveland's discharge of water after treatment runs into Edward's Bayou, which was originally approved by the Environmental Protection Agency, but now discharge lines have to be extended to the Jordan river.

Grand Jury's Gulfview probe brings two arrests

By BRENT MACEY

Oris Ladner of Lakeshore, Hancock County School Board District One representative, was arrested Friday morning by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department for 'conflict of interest' charges stemming from the Hancock County Grand Jury's indictments Wednesday.

John V. Ladner, election commissioner of District Three, also indicted Wednesday, gave himself up to the sheriff's department Wednesday afternoon, on charges of forgery.

Oris and John Ladner each posted a $1,500 bond.

UPDATE

Hancock Sheriff Ronald (Ronnie) Peterson said late Saturday a third person indicted in the Gulfview probe is still being sought by his office.

Peterson stated, "My office will not release the name of this person until the papers have been officially served."

"We have tried several times to locate the party since the grand jury returned the indictment late Wednesday," Peterson allowed.

The indictment order states Oris Ladner was a 'salaried employee doing labor work for Bay Contractors, Inc.' while simultaneously holding office on the school board.

Bay Contractors of Diamondhead was contracted by the school board to reconstruct Gulfview Elementary School after a tornado struck the building May 20.

The indictment states Oris Ladner received a total of $3,000 between May 30, and Aug. 15 from Bay Contractors.

The indictment states Oris Ladner was present at the board meetings and approved payments to the contractors.

Personnel at the State Attorney General's office in Jackson and the District Attorney's office in Gulfport Friday did not know if the 'conflict of interest' charge would warrant a felony conviction.

John Ladner was charged with two counts of forgery.

The indictment states John Ladner, "...willfully, feloniously, fraudulently and falsely did forge the name of Tommy Lane."

The indictment continues, "John Ladner well knew the invoice and the check to be false, forged and counterfeit with the willful and felonious intent."

Lane was issued a $3,000 check by the board for painting work at Gulfview after the storm.

In a speech after a school board meeting Friday, John Ladner claimed he had 'power of attorney' during the period when the check was issued.

He added, "The board has done everything in its power to continue a smooth operation of schools in Hancock County."

"I have no gripes whatsoever," John Ladner continued, "It seems the more you do the less it is appreciated, but we can't let that bother us."

Ladner said problems facing the school board went 'beyond the tornado.' "It started way back from a few jealous individuals trying to interfere

Propane propulsion eyed for school buses

By BRENT MACEY

Board member Louie Ladner of the Hancock County School Board, proposed propane conversion of the district's school busses at a meeting Friday morning.

Ladner said the conversion was 'feasible' and could reduce bus fuel costs 30 percent.

He said propane could be purchased at 70 cents per gallon as opposed to $1.05 per gallon the school district paying for gasoline.

Ladner said the conversion would involve purchasing an $825 'conversion kit' per bus from Blossman Gas Co. in Waveland.

Board Attorney Joseph Cox said the school board would pay 80 cents per gallon for propane with an additional 10 cents going toward payment for the conversion kits.

Ladner added that Blossman Gas would provide a bulk tank and the school district would supply a fuel pump necessary to fill the busses.

"The busses would get no less than one gallon per mile less than they are now getting from gasoline," Ladner said.

He explained propane is 'cleaner burning' than regular gasoline and engine as a result would have a 'longer

Compretta endorses 'open records' law

State Representative Dennis Dollar of Gulfport said Friday he will introduce, for the consideration of the 1981 session of the Mississippi Legislature, a bill which would open most records of government at the state and local levels to the public.

Hancock County's State Representative J. P. Compretta said Friday he supports the 'open records' law with revisions made in similar legislation last year.

Dollar's bill, which will be known as the Mississippi Public Records Act of 1981, is patterned after a similar one he introduced during the 1980 session and died on the house calendar when an early adjournment vote prevented its being considered prior to a deadline.

Compretta noted that last year he was a member of the Judiciary B Committee which reviewed and revised the bill.

"I felt then it was a good bill everyone could live with," Compretta stated.

Dollar said the bill would be, "Substantially the same as last year's model when it came out of the Judiciary 'B' Committee."

The bill would designate a custodian of records for every public body in the state and spell out procedures through which a citizen inspect or copy public records.

Certain documents, such as tax returns, medical records, hospital staff reports, licensure examinations and certain law enforcement and judicial information, would be exempt from disclosure under the act.

Dollar stated, "Although certain documents should be exempted because of their nature, the public should have access to those many records which are accumulated through taxpayer's expense and reflect upon the way billions of tax dollars are being spent."

He cited budgetary figures, rules and regulations enacted by public bodies, various statistics and data collected by governmental agencies, and eligibility guidelines for public programs as among those "records which the average citizen might be affected by and have an interest in."

"If we are truly going to believe in government of, by and for the people, then we must allow the public to have access to the workings of the government," Dollar said.

Mississippi is the only state in the nation which does not have a public records law.

Dollar noted the bill will stand a good chance of passage because of what he calls, "Great public interest in a long-overdue piece of legislation."

"It is a good government measure which will not cost the state any money. In a tight fiscal year, as 1981 appears destined to be, this is the type of legislation we should be focusing upon. It has great potential benefits in building public confidence that government in Mississippi has nothing to hide, while at the same time it has a price tag of virtually zero."

Oil, gas seminar announced

'How to Protect the Landowner in Oil and Gas Transactions' is the topic of a two-day seminar by the University of New Orleans' College of Business Administration, Jan. 16-17, at the International Hotel in New Orleans.

Topics to be discussed include basic legal principles such as surface and sub-surface trespass and adverse possession; key clauses and implied covenants in modern oil and gas leases; and state regulation of oil and gas.

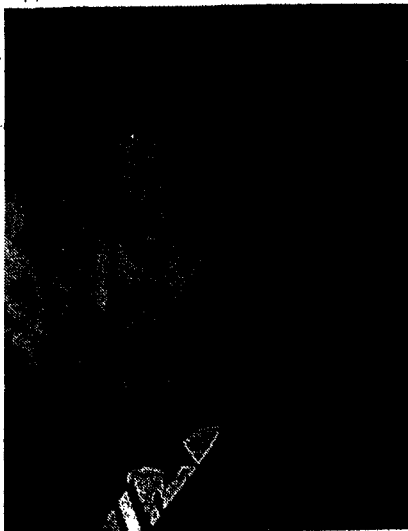

Other sessions include discussion of the extent and timing of development and exploration, the percentage of royalty and water rights problems.

Conducting the seminar will be John S. Lowe, professor of law at the University of Tulsa College of Law.

Lowe is associate director of the National Energy Law and Policy Institute at the University of Tulsa and is former chairman of the Ohio State Bar Association's special committee on oil and gas law.

For further information on the program, call the UNO College of Business Administration at (504) 283-0249.

HOLIDAY FOOD SAFETY

Be careful that the culinary delights you create during the holiday season are safe to eat. Careful food handling is important now because food is served in large quantities from busy kitchens. Those conditions could lead to food poisoning.

Here are some food handling tips for a safe holiday: —When planning buffets and other meals, decide how many people you can serve safely. Table space and serving areas are important considerations. So is the amount of refrigeration space available to store food. Letting food sit out increases the chance of food poisoning. Keep buffet servings small and replenish them as needed directly from the refrigerator or stove. Never keep perishable food at room temperature for more than two hours.

—Be sure to keep food either hot or cold and clean. Cooking food thoroughly destroys some germs but they can spread to food again once it has cooled. The danger zone for bacterial growth on food is between 40 and 140 degrees F.

Room temperature is perfect for germ growth. Keep a thermometer in the refrigerator to make sure foods are kept below 40 degrees F. It is not always possible to tell by taste, looks or odor if food is safe. Meats, poultry and dairy products left at room temperature too long allow germs to grow to dangerous numbers.

—Certain holiday foods deserve extra attention. Germs thrive in foods such as cold meat cuts, turkey, stuffing, potato salad, chicken salad, ham salad, cream pies and egg nog. Keep your hands and utensils clean when preparing these foods and refrigerate the foods as soon as you prepare them.

—Wash your hands and kitchen utensils with soap and hot water after handling one food and before working with another. Always wash your cutting board and utensils thoroughly after using them for cook meat and poultry before you use them for raw meat and poultry - and vice versa.

—The safest way to cook turkey stuffing is separately from the bird. Germs love the ingredients in stuffing and thrive in the warm moist interior of a turkey. If you do stuff your turkey, take these safety precautions. Make the stuffing in advance, refrigerate it separately from the bird and stuff the bird just before cooking it. Cook the interior of the stuffing to an internal temperature of 165 degrees F or higher. Use a meat thermometer to make sure the heat has penetrated the stuffing.

—Thaw foods in the refrigerator. When frozen meats and poultry are thawed outside the refrigerator, the meat's outer surfaces are exposed too long at temperatures that allow germs to grow. You can thaw a large turkey outside the refrigerator by putting the bird in a watertight package under cold running water. Or, place the bird in a closed double paper bag overnight at room temperature. This method insulates the bird against temperatures that are too warm and prevents uneven thawing. Cook promptly after thawing.

—Place hot dishes prepared ahead of time in the refrigerator quickly after cooking. Reheat them thoroughly before serving. Refrigerate cold dishes immediately after preparation; —Roast, steaks, chops and liquid dairy products may be bought up to five days before using, as long as they are kept well refrigerated. Ground meat and poultry should be bought no more than two days ahead of using and kept refrigerated as well. Freeze fresh meat or poultry immediately if you plan to keep them longer.

Food borne illness can cause, diarrhea, vomiting, stomach cramps and other unpleasant symptoms that can last for several hours or even days.

Hancock LD chapter receives state award

The Hancock County Chapter of the Mississippi Association of Children with Learning Disabilities was awarded an honorary certificate of merit at a recent Jackson conference.

Chapter President Marion Dailey said recently, "This is a great honor for any chapter to receive. We won the certificate of merit for having an active and growing organization and for informing the public of the services for learning disabled."

"Only two chapters won this certificate of merit - the Jackson and Hancock County chapters. Louise Abrams received the certificate of merit on behalf of the Hancock Chapter," Dailey added.

"Joyce Ladner, Karen Pennington, Abrams deserve our thanks for a job well done in representing us at this conference. They went to all the workshops taking notes for our newsletter that we are putting together for all interested persons," Dailey said.

"Anyone wanting to receive a copy of this newsletter can write to Marion Dailey, chapter president at Route 3, Box 696, Bay St. Louis MS 39520 or call 255-9287," Dailey said.

"The Jackson chapter has put together a Mississippi ACDL Cookbook which is now available through our local chapter at the price of $6.50 for anyone interested in buying one of these cookbooks of Mississippi recipes. Also, don't forget our food flavoring which can be purchased through our chapter," Dailey reported.

"Dec. 13 is the first annual 'Shake a Bucket Day' for the learning disabled, come on out and shake a bucket with us. We will be at the signal lights by Our Shopping Center in Waveland. Be looking for us," the chapter president suggested.

"Anyone interested in joining our organization may contact at 255-9287 or come to our next meeting at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 15 at Scaffid's Wheel Inn on US-90. Dr. Basel Gaar will be our guest speaker," Dailey added.

Free HBO preview slated for local cable customers

A free preview of the movies and specials of Home Box Office (HBO), the premium pay TV network, will be available to all Hancock Community Cable subscribers in Bay St. Louis and Waveland on cable feature Channel 7 Dec. 6 and 7.

Viewers will be able to watch such recent hit movies as 'Superman: The Movie' with Christopher Reeve and Margot Kidder, 'Rocky II' with Sylvester Stallone, '10' starring Bo Derek, 'The Muppet Movie' and specials including 'Linda Ronstadt in Concert.'

Jake Jacob, Manager of Hancock Community Cable, said Friday, "This unusual opportunity to see exceptional film fare plus exclusive entertainment specials will be offered by special arrangement with HBO, America's first choice in pay television, now serving over four million homes nationwide."

"This weekend preview is an example of the programming HBO offers all year round, uncut and uninterrupted by commercials," Jacob reported.

"A free sample is the best way to let people know about HBO; it's two days of great entertainment at no charge," he added.

Highlights of the first day of the preview will include Clint Eastwood, a beer drinking orangutan and Sondra Locke in 'Every Which Way But Loose.' Superstar Eastwood changes pace in this comedy romp, one of the year's biggest box office hits, 5 p.m. Saturday.

'Superman: The Movie' zooms on at 7 p.m. with Christopher Reeve as the Man of Steel and Margot Kidder as Lois Lane. The blockbuster also features Marlon Brando, Gene Hackman and Valerie Perrine plus skyscrapers, locomotives and an earthquake.

The free sample continues with the spectacular Bo Derek as well as Dudley Moore in '10' beginning at 9:30 p.m. The movie that made the corn row hairstyle popular and Ravel's 'Bolero' a best-seller will be offered uninterrupted to all cable viewers.

On Sunday, the free preview weekend continues with 'Linda Ronstadt in Concert.' The queen of rock and roll is featured at 5:30 p.m. singing favorites from her seven platinum records.

Great family entertainment continues at 7 p.m. Sunday with 'The Muppet Movie,' the first full length film starring Kermit the Frog and Miss Piggy. Orson Welles, Mel Brooks, Steve Martin, Cloris Leachman and Telly Savalas also put in appearances in this delightful tale of a frog who goes to Hollywood. Sunday's family features start at 2 p.m. with 'Hero at Large' starring John Ritter; a whimsical story of an actor who takes his role as Captain Avenger too seriously.

Sylvester Stallone battles back in 'Rocky II' starting at 9 p.m., Sunday and the free weekend of HBO rounds off with 'Time After Time' starring Malcolm McDowell and Mary Steenburgen. This ingenious romantic thriller about H.G. Wells, Jack the Ripper and a time machine can be seen by local cable viewers beginning at 11:15 p.m.

Auxiliary hosts Monday party

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 77 met on Nov. 10 at the Legion Home on Coleman Avenue in Waveland. President Hedi Klein presided.

A report was presented on the Loughern Area Conference which Post No. 77 hosted. Commander Jack Doyle addressed the group on the success of the conference and thanked them on their help to make it such a success.

All Auxiliary members are invited to a Christmas party Dec. 1 at 7:00 p.m. at the Legion Home. The party will be hosted by members of the executive committee.

"Mrs. Santa has asked that all the ladies be on time so they will not miss the exciting program that has been arranged," said auxiliary Mary Callier.

Following the business meeting a social hour was hosted by Terri Bourgeois, Terry Bratmeyer and Joan Wilkerson.

Dress Up Leftovers With Mexican Flavor

CanCun Casserole is a variation of Mexican cooking and a great way to dress up leftover beef. Tortilla fanciers will love its border of crisp, hot chips.

Easy-to-make, this casserole begins with handy and richly-flavored Campbell's Pork & Beans, baked with hot cherry peppers. This is an economical and nutritious dish for four.

CANCUN CASSEROLE

2 cans (16 ounces each) Campbell's Pork & Beans in Tomato Sauce
1 1/2 cups cubed cooked beef
1 tablespoon finely chopped hot cherry peppers
Tortilla chips
Shredded lettuce
Sliced ripe olives

In shallow baking dish (10x6x2"), combine beans, beef and peppers. Bake at 400° F. for 15 minutes or until hot; stir. Top with a border of chips. Bake 5 minutes more. Garnish with lettuce and olives. Makes about 4 cups, 4-6 servings.

As the month of December approaches, we realize that the amount of parties will be far more than normal.

It seems that when all these parties are going on, many more auto accidents happen, and the majority of accidents alcohol is involved in some way.

If you plan on being a party goer during the Christmas season, (or any other time), please have someone drive for you. Many folks enjoy taking a drink during the holidays, but some have a tendency to drink far too much and end up getting hurt or hurting someone else.

Enjoy your holidays, but please be careful!

We wish to congratulate our friend Dick Kosbab on being elected president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

We know that Dick will do a fine job as he does in any endeavor he is involved.

We realize Dick will not be able to do the job all by himself and hope that everyone will pitch in and help our Chamber continue to progress.

We know new Vice-President L.J. Breaux and Treasurer Dick Thomas will give their support to Kosbab.

Both of these fine men have been heavily involved in the Chamber for a very long time.

The outgoing officers which include President Wayne Ducomb, Vice-president Dick Thomas, and Treasurer Mary M. Perkins, should all be commended on the fine year the Chamber has had in 1980.

A big plus for the Chamber was a membership increase of 75, now this does not sound like much, but when you start figuring percentages, it is a 16 percent increase over the previous year.

We hope many of you took time on Thanksgiving Day to watch the annual Macey's parade.

It was good to know that someone from right here in Hancock County was marching in the extravaganza.

We mean of course, Lisa Necaise, a Hancock North Central Band member who was one of two representatives from Mississippi in McDonald's All-American band.

A big honor for someone from Hancock County.

Congratulations are in store for Ronnie Hode, park ranger at Buccaneer State Park.

Hode was cited by the Mississippi Bureau of Recreation and Parks as a 1980 Outstanding Employee.

We know park Manager Greg Smith must be happy for someone from his park to win such a notable award.

Keep up the good work Ronnie, glad you were recognized for the fine job you do at Buccaneer.

We feel it will not be the same Christmas Tree lighting without a big fanfare this year as it has been in the past.

We can see why the annual Chamber of Commerce event had to be done a little different.

We do hope everyone will turn-out for the switch-on of the lights Monday by the Board of Supervisors.

The tree really adds something to the Courthouse lawn and it looks very nice.

The lighting will be at 9 a.m. Monday.

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

I have joined the family firm after college, through the MBA. Advertising, as I recall from our computer games and basic studies, was a big factor in building volume. But I can't convince my father. What Can I Do?

Dear WCID: No specific tips on convincing your dad, but your approach to the whole matter seems to be too general.

Adding one or two parts of advertising to a merchandising recipe is no guarantee of success.

This approach to helping a sick business, would be as naive as simply prescribing medicine for a sick person.

Without a diagnosis and examination, medicine, at best, would do no harm—at worst it could worsen a bad situation to the point of being fatal.

Basing advertising expenditures on volume is a valid approach, but without a plan. Don't promote advertising as a function, but focus on the specific campaign you select as most needed. Then the issue isn't advertising, but the merits of the goal you want to achieve.

But, in answer to your question, have a plan. Don't promote advertising as a function, but focus on the specific campaign you select as most needed. Then the issue isn't advertising, but the merits of the goal you want to achieve.

SIGNS OF CHRISTMAS—Bay St. Louis City Hall is one of the first governmental buildings to display Christmas decorations locally. Another interesting aspect of the city hall decorations is a garden of flourishing mums in bloom which add to the beauty of the scene. We hope more governmental agencies, merchants and homeowners will join in the spirit of Christmas and make our county one of the best decorated areas of the state. It can be done.

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Calling economic growth 'one of the most important aspects of our development,' Governor William Winter recently hosted a major economic development seminar entitled the 'Governor's Conference on Business Strategy and Management for Competitiveness and Productivity.'

The conference was attended by over 75 business and industrial leaders from throughout the state.

"We invited people knowledgeable in the area of economic development who, based on that they heard from the speakers, could give significant input as to the direction Mississippi's industrial development program should take," Winter explained.

The governor called the conference, "An important step in plotting a proper course for economic development in Mississippi. I want Mississippi to have plans for economic growth that are well-defined and based upon well-studied data. I believe a well-developed economic and industrial development program will enable us to take advantage of the labor we have, the resources we have, and the location we have in a way that will result in more investment in this state."

Winter said the idea for the conference came from a similar conference he attended in Atlanta which dealt with industrial competitiveness in the United States, particularly as it relates to Japan.

"I was impressed with the necessity of developing some plans domestically in this county and particularly as they relate to economic development in the South and Mississippi," Winter reported.

Participants in the conference, sponsored by the governor along with the U.S. Department of Economic Development, discussed critical issues in the formulation of Mississippi's economic policy.

Those attending included Peter C. Peterson, William L. Givens and Dr. Jerry C. Nims.

Peterson, former U.S. Secretary of Commerce, is president of the New York-based Lehman Brothers, an international investment banking firm. Givens is chairman and co-founder of Twain Braxton Asia in Boston, Mass., a consulting firm specializing in corporate strategy, with particular focus on Japan and the developing economies of Asia. He is also president of Twain Associates of Wellesley Hills, Mass., a marketing and strategy analysis group.

Nims is founder and chairman of Nimslo Technology, Inc. of Atlanta, Ga. The firm was formed to develop certain revolutionary concepts of optical technology and theory in the field of three-dimensional photography.

Rheumatic Fever Hits Young Hearts

Rheumatic fever accounts for much of the heart disease found in children and young adults.

Rheumatic fever usually occurs between the ages of 5 and 15, although adults can have it. It may affect any part of the body temporarily, but damage to the heart, which can be long lasting, is the greatest danger.

Rheumatic heart disease results from the scarring of the heart muscle and valves by rheumatic fever. This may interfere with the vital work of the heart. Many patients recover without permanent injury to the heart valves, but the disease has a way of repeating itself and each attack renews the chances of heart damage.

Rheumatic fever is preceded by a streptococcal infection such as strep throat, scarlet fever or a strep ear infection. It can be prevented by treating the strep infection promptly and thoroughly with antibiotics.

Because persons who have had rheumatic fever are susceptible rather than immune to repeat attacks, long-term preventive treatment is often prescribed for them. Regular doses of penicillin, under the direction of a physician, can prevent further strep infections and thus ward off subsequent attacks of rheumatic fever.

You can protect your child against rheumatic fever by consulting your doctor if the child develops a sudden, severe sore throat, or if he or she has been exposed to someone with scarlet fever or another strep infection.

MISSISSIPPI

NEWS

The decade of the 1970's produced this country's greatest increase in the number of major federal regulatory agencies, according to one of the nation's foremost economic historians, Dr. Stuart Bruchey.

Dr. Bruchey, the Allan Nevins professor of American Economic History at Columbia University, explained to members of the Mississippi Economic Council last week that the cost of federal regulatory activity is a major factor in America's continuing inflation.

During the seventies, 21 new major regulatory agencies appeared, plus two more that were offshoots of an older agency. By 1979, some 90 agencies of varying size were regulating a wide range of private sector activities. In 1970, explained Dr. Bruchey, federal regulations equaled some 20,000 pages of text. By the end of 1979, regulations equaled some 80,000 pages.

The Center for the Study of American

Business has calculated that staffing of these agencies more than tripled in the 1970's, rising from roughly 27,000 people to 87,500. Budget reports in the decade reveal an increase of 537 percent in total regulatory outlays.

American free enterprise does not mean a complete separation of government and the private sector. But, it does mean providing the business community maximum possible freedom from overpowering government restraint. It means reducing regulatory activities to encourage commercial interests, while protecting the rights and well-being of consumers.

The key to effective reform is to let the market work. The market is the most effective means of allocating resources for the goods and services the country needs. It is generally efficient and flexible and is able to respond more quickly than government to the changing needs and preferences of individuals.

with the school system," he noted.

John Ladner said the individuals had a "personal vendetta" against him and apologized to the school board.

"It hadn't been for me this would not have happened. I just hope that God forgives them," he added, "because I'm still after them."

John Ladner complained about the sheriff's office involvement in the investigation.

"I don't feel the sheriff's department should enter in to private enterprise," he said.

Ladner mentioned the sheriff's department investigated the type of toilet paper used in the school.

"They concluded no worse toilet paper could be purchased," John Ladner said.

Board President Woodrow Ladner stated, "This board is a conscientious one and I feel that the truth will stand up at the end."

The grand jury issued 67 indictments this week. The names of 65 have been withheld pending issuance of indictment notices to those individuals.

The jury lashed the Hancock school board in their report Wednesday, which states, "The events of the three to four months after the tornado should be a matter of great concern to everyone in Hancock County. There was apparently a general, but not in all individual cases, blatant unconcern and disregard for reasonably good business practices and protection of the taxpayer money."

The report said the school board paid Gulf Coast Security, a private firm, $7.50 per hour per guard to guard Gulfview as opposed to $3.50 per hour offered by the sheriff's department.

The company was employed after an emergency situation was declared by the school board after the tornado struck.

The report states a local roofer contacted by the board's architect for estimates in repairing the roof said he could start work May 21, and have the roof "water tight" by noon May 22.

"The roofer never again heard from the architect or the board," the report added.

Another roofer started repairs May 24.

"By that time substantial rains had further damaged the school interiors," the jury noted.

The report states, "neither the school board nor the superintendent had an explanation for not taking temporary measures to prevent further damage."

The report also states the superintendent of schools:

—Entered into a cost-plus type contract with Bay Contractors, Inc. but did not verify cost bills to the board and in fact approved a labor bill in excess of $4,800 when no labor was actually performed;

—Did not accept advice of the board's architect concerning selection of the general contractor;

—Did not get competitive bids as required by law;

—Contracted firms not licensed by state law;

—Did not secure bonds necessary to insure satisfactory completion of work.

The report states the board:

—Accepted all bills from the superintendent without investigation, examination or audit;

—Never made available some fencing salvaged from the elementary school needed for the school coach's house;

—Authorized bill payments for fence construction at $24 per square foot when further investigation by the sheriff's department revealed estimates from other fencing contractors in the area of $7 a foot for comparable fencing and installation.

—Authorized payments totaling more than $380,000 when only $170,000 was covered by insurance.

The report also stated that two members of the school board worked for contractors hired to do repair work at the school.

life. Board President Woodrow Ladner questioned a possible cutback of state funds now available to schools for gasoline purchases.

"I know of two big counties which would have gone to the conversions if they hadn't lost their gas allotment," Ladner reported.

Billy Sills, school district superintendent, said he did not believe the allotment would be reduced.

The members directed Sills to study the question of a possible cutback of funds for gasoline.

In other business, the school board voted to expel a Hancock North Central Senior High School student for the remainder of the school year.

The board upheld the recommendation by HNC Principal Donald Hillman that the student be expelled for "vile and obscene language, not obeying the principal and skipping school."

Neither the student or any relatives were present at the meeting.

The board stated a notice delivered by a sheriff's deputy on Nov. 24 gave the student time to respond.

This was the second hearing the school board has set for the student.

In other business the board moved:

—To purchase two electric typewriters for $1618;

—To pay a $280 telephone bill;

—Accepted Charles Ginn as a seventh grade mathematics teacher.

WEATHERIZE YOUR HOME

Adding insulation reduces your utility bill because a lot of heat is lost through the attic.

Weather stripping and caulking are inexpensive ways to prevent cold air from invading your home.

Window treatments such as storm windows, shutters, a quilt over the window or plastic applied outside, the window further reduce cold drafts.

SOYBEANS FOR SEED

Good quality soybean seed for next spring starts with good seed this fall. That's why it's important to take the correct steps now to insure highest quality and yield of seed beans for 1981.

The first thing to consider is moisture. It's best to harvest seed beans when they reach 13 to 14 percent moisture content. Harvesting at this moisture level won't prevent mechanical damage, but it is the stage where damage from machinery is minimized. It'll also mean you will get beans out of the field with the least amount of deterioration.

Harvest seed fields first, even if it means you have to stop combining an earlier maturing variety and clean up the combine. There really is no substitute for getting seed beans out of the field as soon as possible after the moisture content reaches the point where beans can be stored safely.

To keep mechanical damage lowest, keep combines and handling equipment properly adjusted and operate at correct speeds. Adjust cylinder speeds and concave at just enough clearance to thresh beans. Change the settings as field conditions change. Check the grain tank occasionally. If beans are cracked, adjust the combine.

Operate augers as near as possible to full capacity to allow a minimum number of seed to contact metal surfaces and reduce mechanical damage. Avoid operating at high speeds and handle seed as few times as possible.

Stay out of weedy areas at harvest. Weeds will mean more green material in beans that will increase seed moisture content and also may cause heating in storage. Combining weedy spots produces weed seed in beans which often are difficult to remove completely during cleaning.

FALL FERTILIZER Soybeans respond well to fall applied fertilizer. This practice is especially appropriate for double crop systems where the total amount of phosphate and potash for both the winter crop and soybeans can be plowed down during fall seedbed preparation. Be sure to add enough for both crops. With the possible exception of some deep sand soils, there is no significant leaching losses

Talented, gifted children conference to be in Tupelo

The Sixth Annual Conference of the Mississippi Association for the Talented and Gifted will be at the Ramada Inn in Tupelo, Dec. 5-6.

"The conference will feature keynote addresses by Dr. Frances Karnes, president of our national organization and Dr. Barbara Clark, outstanding educator, lecturer and writer in the field of gifted education," an association spokesman said.

A luncheon address by Dr. Charles Holladay, state superintendent of education, will be followed by seminar sessions concerning gifted children.

"A two-day workshop for gifted students will convene simultaneously with the conference. A special program for parents is scheduled for Saturday. The conference will conclude with a dramatic improvisation presented by the gifted students participating in the workshop," the spokesman noted.

All interested persons are invited to attend. For more information contact Betty Walker, Special Education Section, State Department of Education, by telephoning 354-6950 in Jackson.

No soap opera could match romance of Gainesville Indian girl, sailor

Of all the stories that have come down to us of old Gainesville, no other is so sad yet at the same time so interesting as the one about the broken-hearted Indian girl and her sailor sweetheart.

A white man from far away came to Gainesville on a boat about 100 years ago. He liked the place and quit his boat job to work in a sawmill there.

This sailor, now turned mill worker, liked the woods. He loved the trees and the solitude he found in the great pine forests.

He liked hunting and fishing. In his explorations over the area and on hunting trips he had gone into the Indian settlement over east of Gainesville in the edge of Devil Swamp.

He hunted with the Indians. He was a good woodsman and a good hunter and he won the admiration and respect of the Indians. He was a good worker in the sawmill, he was honest and thrifty. He was also liked and respected by the people of the little town of Gainesville. This man came to know a Choctaw Indian girl of the tribe over on Devil Swamp. She attracted him because she was smart, good looking and well above average intelligence.

He married the Indian girl and brought her to a small home in the edge of Gainesville. A girl baby was born to this couple. She was an unusually smart child, she learned fast and was, as the old saying goes, "as pretty as a picture."

The man was extremely proud of his little girl. He petted her, taught her, trained her - he wanted her to become educated, respected and accepted in the community. Then too, he dreamed of carrying her back with him to his old home far away and he wanted his family there not to be ashamed of her.

The little girl responded well to his teaching. She learned fast. She was energetic, enthusiastic and she had a way about her that won the friendship of the children of the neighborhood. She played and went to school with the white children nearby and made friends with them. As she grew into her teens, the half-breed girl blossomed into a beautiful woman.

When about 16-years-old she became acquainted with a young sailor whose ship had come into Gainesville for a load of lumber.

He fell madly in love with her and she with him. When all too soon he sailed away he promised he would be back soon.

In a few months his boat again came to Gainesville for another cargo and a short stay. While there he fervently courted the beautiful young girl.

When he left this time on a heavily loaded lumber boat he was engaged to marry her with the wedding set for his return within a few weeks time.

The young girl spent her time while he was away in happy anticipation and in preparation for her coming marriage. She thought of nothing but her young sailor and existed in a dreamy state of blissful waiting.

After the young sailor had been gone for about a week there came one of the worst storms in all the history of the coast. There was damage to boats and cargoes even as far back from the gulf as Gainesville.

There was much speculation as to the fate of ships known to be in the Gulf of Mexico when this storm struck. There was special anxiety in Gainesville about the ship on which the Indian girl's young sailor friend had shipped as many members of the crew of this ship were from the Gainesville area.

Every day from every direction there were rumors of ships wrecked with losses of crews and cargoes. The Indian girl, of course, heard these rumors.

At the store where her father traded and where she was well known, a New Orleans daily paper was received regularly.

There were stories of losses of ships from the storm almost every day. The girl had been to school very little, but enough to enable her to laboriously read and understand the news.

She haunted this store, waiting, always waiting for news of the ship and her sailor. She inquired of every boat that came into Gainesville for news of the fate of his ship.

Where she had always been light-hearted, gay and smiling, she became somber and serious. The ready smile was no longer on her pretty face.

She thought only of her sailor. The longer she had to wait the more that dread and fear clutched her soul.

She came daily, sometimes more often, to ask if there was any news.

In her slow way she read every word in the paper everytime a new copy came in. She even read all the small print searching for news, yet she read as if she feared what she would find.

When she heard the whistle of an arriving boat she would hurry down to question the crew about her sweetheart's boat. She became widely known because of her ceaseless search for her betrothed.

Finally the bad news came. She found in the paper that there had been total loss of ship, cargo and crew. She stood for a moment apparently stunned, then she broke and ran for home, sinking with sobs.

The young girl was seen no more on the streets of Gainesville. Young friends called at her home to ask about her but she would see no one.

She would look at the walls of her room, seemingly unhearing, when her family tried to talk to her.

When food was brought to her she simply ignored it. She spent most of the time in her bed, sobbing and crying.

Her father had always had great influence over her but he failed to stem her sorrow.

They called in the old doctor. Though he was patient and kind, understanding and had always had her confidence, he failed to help her.

In about two months the beautiful young girl died.

Everyone said she had died of a broken heart.

All Gainesville was saddened at the death of the likable, romantic girl. Six young white girls of the impressionable ages of about 14 to 16 who had been friendly with the dead girl, were deeply moved and profoundly shocked at her death, yet they were thrilled to the bottom of their souls at the romance they had witnessed with its tragic end.

They were filled with awe at the sacrifice of her life to this romance. They deeply grieved at the sad end of this gay young girl, yet they grieved in reverent admiration.

These teenage girls were so deeply affected by what they had experienced that they banded together to keep clean and fresh the grave of the girl

they had so recently known and liked so well.

For many years afterwards

these girls would meet at certain times at the grave and lovingly clean and protect it.

They did this for years until they had all either moved away or had full time family responsibilities.

This is a true story told to me by one of the romantic young girls who grieved so for the broken-hearted half breed girl. She lived, an old woman, in Picayune.

I would like to give her name but I promised her I would not.

SUSAN ALICE BENVENUTTI

Diamondhead Garden Club hears holiday decorating tips

The Diamondhead Garden Club met at the Country Club on Wednesday, Nov. 19.

Mrs. Joseph Finley, president, reported that the "Grab Bag" conducted by world gardening chairman, Mrs. Hilaire Ogden, had netted $25, which had been sent to the state world gardening chairman.

Corresponding secretary, Opal Hickman, read a letter of thanks from the Diamondhead Fire Department for garden club members' assistance in decorating for their ball.

Club members were also thanked for making floral decorations for Newcomer Club's luncheon.

Litter control chairman, Mrs. George Kollasch, thanked all who had helped make a big success of fall clean-up day, Nov. 1.

Birds chairman, Mrs. John Booth, distributed pamphlets titled "Birds and Their Food," and spoke briefly on the barn owl, her topic for the meeting.

Conservation and ecology chairman, Mrs. William Templett, suggested members send for a booklet "Women-Your Environmental Challenge," and spoke on environmental workshops she had recently attended.

Workshop chairman, Mrs. Jan Brameyer, told members she had a catalog from which they could select various sized needle-point holders, which she would then mail-order.

Mrs. Clarence Evans, a member of the state board of directors, reported on having attended the landscape design school held in Starkville.

Memorial Gardens chairman, Mrs. Booth, said two trees had been donated, one by Mrs. Dix Ashman in memory of Mrs. Norma Douglas and another by the Sweet Adeline singing group in memory of Mrs. Charlotte Reshew's mother, just recently deceased.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnson was chosen as Garden of the Month.

The Christmas party will be at the home of Mrs. E. C. Dean on December 17 at 11 a.m. Members are to bring a covered dish and a gift for the gift exchange.

The program, "Holiday Decor From Your Garden" was presented by Mrs. Paul Franke Jr., nationally accredited flower show judge, who demonstrated methods of making wreaths, swags, decorated candelabra and other attractive holiday decorations for the home.

Sullenberger, Bensabat plan January wedding

KATHERINE MARGARET SULLENBERGER

Mrs. Elaine Young Sullenberger and Dr. John William Sullenberger of Tallahassee, Fla. announce the engagement of their daughter, Katherine Margaret, to Mark Perry Bensabat, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dunbar Bensabat of Waveland.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Rickards High School in Tallahassee. She recently received a marketing degree from Florida State University, where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi fraternity.

She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Sullenberger of Tallahassee and the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Ashley Young of Bainbridge, Ga.

The prospective groom was graduated from Christopher Columbus High School in Miami, Fla. He received a bachelor's degree in economics from Florida State University where he was president of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. He will receive a master's degree in business administration in December and has accepted a position with the First National Bank of Commerce in New Orleans.

He is the grandson of Mrs. Benjamin Christian Brown and the late Albert Alfred Bensabat of New Orleans and Mrs. Orley Radcliffe Lilly and the late Mr. Lilly of Grenada, Miss.

The couple will solemnize vows in an early January ceremony at St. Thomas More Cathedral in Tallahassee.

ALICIA MARIE SCHULZ

Mr. and Mrs. Kelvin J. Schulz of Bay St. Louis announce the birth of their first child, Alicia Marie, November 21, 1980 at 12:27 p.m. at Hancock General Hospital. She weighed 8 pounds.

Mrs. Schulz is the former Emily Mollere.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brewster Mollere of Waveland.

Paternal grandparents are Mrs. Alvin C. W. Schulz of New Orleans and the late Mr. Schulz.

SHERI GRACE LADNER

Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Ladner of Bay St. Louis announce the birth of their first child Sheri Grace, October 30, 1980 at 8:12 p.m. at Memorial Hospital in Gulfport. She weighed 6 pounds 13 ounces.

Mrs. Ladner is the former Grace Langston.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Langston of Gulfport.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius J. Ladner of Bay St. Louis.

Tabor named 1981 president of HPVFD Ladies Auxiliary

At the November 11 meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary Henderson Point Volunteer Fire Department, Mrs. Ariel Bloom, past-president, presented the gavel to Mrs. Edith Tabor, 1981 president.

Mrs. Tabor stressed the need to bring the 1981 membership up from its present level, and special emphasis will be given to this project through the first week in January.

All present members are urged to re-new their memberships and encourage friends and neighbors to join the organization.

Preliminary plans were made for the Christmas dinner party on Saturday, December 13, 6:30 p.m. This event is sponsored each year in conjunction with the Henderson Point Volunteer Fire Department.

Members will be contacted for donations of covered dishes. All members are invited to attend.

The next scheduled meeting will be December 9, 7 p.m. at the fire station.

Christmas decoration class set

All fourth through sixth grade girls and boys are invited to a special class at the City-County Library in Bay St. Louis.

The subject? How to make your own Christmas decorations!

The class, which is being sponsored by the Hancock County Library System, will be Saturday, Dec. 6, from 10 a.m. - noon. A library spokesman said, "There is no charge for the class, but you must pre-register, so there will be enough materials for each person."

To pre-register, call the library at 467-5282.

Garden Club sponsors decorating contest

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club will sponsor its annual Christmas decorating contest on Sunday, December 21. The judging will begin at 5 p.m.

This year, the categories will be commercial establishments in Bay St. Louis and Waveland and homes in both cities. They will be judged for the best overall effect as seen from the street. Lighting may be used.

Contestants should send their entries to Mrs. John F. Holmes, 600 Dunbar Ave., Bay St. Louis.

Newcomer's and DVFD Auxiliary stage joint fall/winter fashion show

The Newcomer's Club and the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Diamondhead Volunteer Fire Department combined meetings and staged one of the finest style shows ever presented here according to Sidney Watson, publicist.

Carol Elvin of La Boutique narrated as models presented more than forty fall and winter gowns, suits, coats, formal jumpsuits and other exciting styles to over 120 guests.

Models were: Cell Grice, Mollie Matrangola, Marilyn Cuccia, Patty Hourin, Bertha Morris, Theresa Demoran, Dee Rainey, Susan Currie, Connie Clark, and Marge Pflugfelder.

Lorraine Heier presided over the meeting with Lee Peterson and Isabelle Lund managing ticket sales. Eva Bond, Callie Garner and Wilma Smith staffed the Christmas sales counter.

Welma Mistretta and Jane Conley registered and name tagged the guests.

Linn Godard and Velma Mistretta arranged for the door prizes and Jan Conley supervised the drawing. Bertha Morris modeled and handled seating.

Miriam Haggard and Frances Mayfield arranged decorations. Jane Conley presented newcomers to Diamondhead, they are: Gail Nami, Boyon Leshin, Ingeborg Barth, Donna Pebone, Joan Munger, Ann Neff, Bonney Salisbury, Edith Acker, Sam Lawarson, Dorothy Lawarson, Marie Mabry, Kris Lawley, Valerie Gaffney and Edna Blackwell. Patty Hourin won the door prize presented by the Golden Parrott and Peg Lewis the gift from Kathy and Sons Jewelry and Gift Inc. Ann Neff won the clothes from La Boutique.

Al Doussan addressed the group on behalf of the community association, Frances Mayfield for the Garden Club, Millie Rubin for the Diamondhead Ladies' Golf Association.

Betty announced the Antique Show will be held on November 29 and 30.

The next meeting of the Newcomers' Club will be Friday, December 12. Husbands are encouraged to attend.

Christ Episcopal plans second annual Christmas boutique

Christ Episcopal School in Bay St. Louis is preparing for its second Annual Christmas Boutique. The Boutique will be Wednesday, Dec. 3, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. William Hopper at 551 East Beach, Pass Christian from 2 p.m. - 6 p.m.

General Chairman Nancy Uram said the home is well known along the coast as Ballmore and is approximately 150 years old.

"The boutique will feature handmade ornaments, a special children's room with toys, paint smocks, personalized pants as well as books from the Book Boat, baked items, personalized Christmas balls, plants and other gift items," Uram reported.

A small tea will be held in conjunction with the boutique. The event is sponsored by the Coast Episcopal School's Parent-Teacher Organization. All proceeds will be donated to the schools for needed equipment.

Walker joins Legal Secretaries Association

Attorney Jim Rose was the guest speaker at the November meeting of the Harrison and Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association held at the Best Western Inn on November 13. He discussed the defense of a court case in continuation of the educational programs on various aspects of court procedures.

Patricia Walker, employed by Attorney Lucien Gex Jr. in Waveland, was approved as a new member.

The association voted to again "Adopt a Family" for its Christmas Welfare Project and to assist the Salvation Army in its Christmas collections.

The association also voted to visit Harrison Central High School on Career Day to encourage interested students to become legal secretaries.

The Arts and craft show previously planned was rescheduled for March 28, 1981 at the Rice Pavilion in Gulfport.

Legal Directories printed by the association each year are available through members of the association.

Scouts make summer camp reservations

Reservations for 1981 summer camp sessions recently have been made by 32 troops in the New Orleans Area Council-Bay Scouts of America.

"Camp Salmen" and the Salmen Scout Reservation was used last summer by 83 troops with 1,094 scouts and 149 adult leaders.

"We are pleased with the number of scouts and troops that attended camp this year, and look forward to an even greater turnout next summer," J. Marc Sancho, scouting vice president, said.

"Troops from 11 parishes of Louisiana and Hancock County, attend camp each year under their own troop leadership. While at camp, the troops are assisted by a camp staff trained in scouting skills, aquatics, ecology, and field sports," Sancho explained.

"While each troop participates in its weeklong camping experience, the scouts have the opportunity to practice many of the educational activities that are part of the total scouting program," sancho said.

Troops should make 1981 summer camp reservations at the Scout Service Center, 2047 Airline Highway, Metairie, La.

Money Talk

By Norine Barnes

Your credit rating is a record of how you pay your debts. Based on your record, you are assigned a credit rating credit managers use to decide whether you will be a good or bad credit risk.

How can you establish a credit rating? If you belong to a credit union, apply for a small loan. If you do not, try for a loan at a bank or other lending institution or apply for a credit card at a local store.

Be sure you do not use more credit than you can handle once you have established credit. By obtaining credit and paying the amount due on time, you can establish a good credit rating.

If you are denied credit, ask why you were denied and how you can correct the situation. Then, Make an honest effort to correct the situation and improve your ability to get credit. You may check your credit rating by visiting your local credit-rating bureau and presenting identification.

If you have not been refused credit, there may be a small charge for this service. If you think there is an error in your file, you can discuss the situation with the credit bureau and then follow up with a written statement explaining your side of the story. Your letter will become a part of your permanent file.

How can you keep a good credit rating? Pay your bills promptly. If you should have any trouble making payments, visit your creditor and try to work out a solution. Some possibilities are delaying or extending payments for a while, paying smaller amounts for a period of time, etc.

The worst thing you can do is to ignore the notices and the calls. The consumer should take the initiative in notifying the lender when occasion arises to prevent full payment on the due date.

What if you have a bad credit rating now? Learn how to set up a realistic budget and manage your money correctly. Get professional help in determining how much of your income can safely go toward paying debts and still leave sufficient money for living expenses.

Remember, credit is a valuable resource but one often abused. Always know the total monthly and grand total of debt load. Shop around for the lowest credit rates. Usually, the better rating you have, the lower interest you will have to pay for using another person's money.

Use credit only when it is to your advantage. Buy items on credit that will still be good when paid for or at least last until the last payment. It is depressing to wear something out before it is paid off. Paying your bills on time is insurance for future credit.

Spouses should agree on items to be purchased with credit. A record of purchases made with credit should be kept by the month. This can be done on an index card placed in the billfold.

MISSISSIPPI WEEKLY WEATHER & CROP REPORT

WEATHER SUMMARY

Wet weather marked the beginning and ending of the week over much of the state. A low pressure system moving up from the Gulf of Mexico brought widespread rain over the state Monday.

By Tuesday high pressure returned bringing sunny skies and cold temperatures back to the state. Saturday brought more rain as a low pressure area moved across the northern Gulf.

Most places in the state received in excess of one and one-half inches for the week. McComb had the greatest 24-hour rainfall of 1.78 inches Sunday morning.

Average temperatures were about eight degrees below normal over the entire state. Extremes ranged from 81 degrees at Wiggins on the 17th to 20 degrees at Starkville on the morning of the 20th.

CROP SUMMARY

Crop harvest near completion. Soil moisture adequate to short. There were 3.3 days suitable for fieldwork compared to 5.4 days the previous week.

Cotton harvest was 98 percent completed, continuing well ahead of last year's 84 percent and the 86 percent average.

Soybeans were 89 percent harvested compared with 93 percent last year and 87 percent for the five-year average.

Pecan harvest was 65 percent completed compared with 69 percent last year and 63 percent for the average.

Winter wheat was 90 percent planted compared to 92 percent last year and 90 percent for the average. The crop was in good condition.

Pastures were in fair condition and livestock were in fair condition.

Hay and roughage supplies were mostly short. Feed Grain supplies were short.

COMMENTS

Benton Co. "Three inch rain Sunday and Monday stopped all harvest. Need three or four more days to complete harvest."

Yazoo Co. "Fall tillage was in full swing until this week's rain. Two heavy frosts this week will slow grain crops growth. Most producers busy making provisions for 1981 seed beans."

Choctaw Co. "Very little progress made in harvesting this week because of rain. Winter grazing crops look good."

Rankin Co. "Heavy rain last Friday night stopped all fieldwork - four to 4.5 inches."

Kemper Co. "First hard freeze Wednesday night - Nov. 19. Should aid in late soybean harvest."

Neshoba Co. "Feed short. Grazing short."

Adams Co. "As soon as ground is dry, some farmers will start land preparation for smoothing up erosion, land planning and continue with winter cover crop planting."

Warren Co. "With the amount of rainfall the quality of the cotton that is left in field will be lowered as well as the quality of the few beans that have not been harvested."

Lincoln Co. "Dairy Farmers are beginning to graze rye grass."

Pike Co. "The moisture level has been sufficient to stimulate growth of winter grazing for some farmers and has created a surplus of grazing for others which is real good for many producers."

There's an Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale
and Ruth Stafford Peale

Wrong reason

Q. I am 17 years old and my husband is 26. We've been married just a few months. We share everything but sex. He doesn't even kiss me without my feeling like I force him to do it. Should I keep on thinking he has someone else? Or is this just a stage of marriage? I know he loves me, but could it be for the wrong reasons?

A. You should not think badly of your husband, wondering if "he has someone else." From the limited information in your letter, our opinion is that his reaction is, as you say, "just a stage of marriage."

For some psychological reason he may be because of timidity have a reticence. We urge you to be patient and loving and if the situation persists, persuade your husband to have counseling. Seared to love

Q. I am a man who was raised in a family that showed no love. I know my parents loved me, but a hug and a kiss just didn't happen. Now I am a loner. I don't believe people when they say they care for me or that they love me. I wonder what they want me to do for them or in what way they are going to use me.

I want to be loved by people, and yet the idea scares me to think about it. How can I overcome this way of thinking?

A. The psychology in your experience of having no demonstration of love as a child has made it difficult for you to be conditioned to normal caring relationships.

But your attitude, stemming from childhood can be changed. When people show a desire to be friendly, assume that they are sincere and be as outgoing as you can in your relationships. By this practice you will lose your fear and feel closer to people.

Bay Catholic Elementary kindergarten students reveal Thanksgiving recipes

TURKEY & BEETS

By SCOTTEMMEL
My Ma cooks it in a big ole pot. She puts salt and pepper (a little bit), she puts juice on it (turkey juice I think). About that high-halfway up the bowl. She puts um beets in the freezer. They are always cold when I eat them. Cook the turkey a hour or so in the oven.

TURKEY

By DANNY STRONG
Momma and Donnie goes to Jitney Jungle. (Donnie works at Jitney). I think her puts salt on it, (a little bit). I think her puts some juice on it (1 quart). Her cooks it in the oven at 50 degrees. It's finished in five or ten minutes.

ROAST BEEF

TURKEY SALAD, PUMPKIN PIE

By KIM MANIERI
Momma and Daddy cooks a seven pound turkey. They put a big onion in it, add salt a little and put it in the oven for 45 minutes at hot. It's ready when Momma and Daddy are just talking.

By BRENNAN COMPETTA
She gets it at Winn Dixie.

My daddy works there. She puts one can full of salt. It tastes like she puts gravy on it. She puts pepper or salt I don't know which one. She puts it in a pot, this round (Brenan holds his arm out). She cooks it in the oven. It's ready probably in 10 seconds. I don't know - - -

BANANAS & GRAB GUMBO

By DANNY STREHLE
My uncle brings crabs and we make gumbo - about a dozen of them. I like water. My grandma boils the crabs - she puts shrimp - one at a time and puts them in there 10. She puts pepper, three pours, salt three pours, she puts one water on it. It's ready about 8 o'clock. We put it in the big pot and eat it.

STEAK

By TIFFANY HOLTZIZER
Sometimes my daddy goes to the steak place to get it. Put steak stuff on it (sometimes a lot, sometimes a few). Cook it on the stove or grill (sometimes it's not Thanksgiving Day). Cook it till it gets dark 'cause they have a light out there.

SALAD & TURKEY

By ALBERT BIEHL
Go to National - my dad gets it. He brings it home. Mom fixes the salad. She takes mayonnaise ('bout a quart). I think a little bit of cole slaw. We gonna cook only one rooster. He puts pepper or salt on the turkey. He puts seasoning in the turkey. He cooks it in the microwave. It's ready in eight minutes.

CHICKEN

By BRANDON GORDON
Dad goes to the grocery store to get a 16 pound chicken. My mom puts stuffing in it. (vegetable stuffing). She puts it in a pan and cooks it in the big side of the oven. It's ready at 6:30. We wait me and Heather, go upstairs (like in Virginia) and find something to do with my friend Lewis until it's ready.

TURKEY

By MONICA AMILLHO
We go to my maw maw Joyce in Lafayette and she has a skinny turkey. I don't know how she cooks it. She has desert for just me and my brother. My mother's not hungry all the time.

TURKEY

By JENNY FAVRE
She cooks it in the pot that we cook uh - lets see, pancakes in - She puts quarter pound of 54 gravy on it. She puts red beans and rice on it the inside of the turkey. (I like it that way). She puts cherries, olives and gravy on top of the turkey (I like peas too). She cooks it on the stove for 45 minutes (I think) It's ready at 6:15.

TURKEY AND CORN

By FRANKIE PENTON
My daddy kills it in the woods. My momma cooks it. He cuts it open then my mother puts potatoes (four pounds) in it. Then they put swooster sauce in it, one quart. I don't know of anything else. They cook it in the oven for nine hours. It's ready when my 'gramma, friends and all my cousins are there.

CORN TURKEY

By BERNIESEY
My dad makes it. He buys it first. It is 30 lbs. This big. I forgot what he put in it. He puts turkey juice on it I think. He cooks it in the oven at very hot. It could burn your hands. It's ready when my sister messes up my toys. (I'm the brother).

CORN & TURKEY

By KRISTIAN MINCHEW
Granny goes to Winn Dixie to get a big turkey and a little turkey. Pour the gravy on it a little bit, pour one bag of rice on it. Cook it in the oven till I come in from playing outside on the swingset. I cross it every day then I wash my hands.

PIZZA

By CARIE ZIMMERMAN
My momma sometimes cooks it. Sometimes at the pizza hut. She puts a little bit salt and the brown stuff that goes with the salt - pepper (?). Put the red stuff, four cans on it. She puts it in a big pot. Then spread it in a little pot. Put some sugar in it, (one bag). Cook it on the stove for one hour.

TURKEY & CRAN BERRY SAUCE

By MARC BERNARD
My Mamaw gets it and cooks it. She gets it at Biloxi - Avenue. I shoot it up in the air. Then I skin it. She barbeques it, fries it, then bakes it, then cooks, then put some sauces on it, then put some pepperoni on it. That's it!!!!

ICE CREAM PIE

By ROBERT BARNES
My mom puts two apples in the stove - my dad does it sometimes. Put five drops of sugar on it. Cook it for bout five minutes. I think that's all.

CORN & FRENCH FRIES

By CHRIS COWART
My mom mostly fixes everything. The turkey is that - big. She puts turkey juice in it, (just a little bit). She cooks it outside in the garage on the parking lot where we park our car.

TURKEY & DRESSING

By JULIE SCIANNA
My sister-in-law and my mamma cooks the turkey. (Sometimes all my sister-in-laws). One of my sister-in-law Debbie is having a baby. They put it in the oven and let it soak how long they cook the other stuff.

STEAK & PORK CHOPS

By BILL FRYER
She gets it at the K&B - bout three pounds. Put salt and pepper and about six dozen sugars. She cooks it in the bout four minutes (hot) till about 7:00 it'll be done. EAT - !

TURKEY

By CHRISTY FAGOT
Turkey with that stuff on the inside. My momma cooks the turkey. She gets it at TG&Y. She puts it in a pan. She puts some gravy on it. It's ready when daddy comes home and a little bit later.

By BOBBY CAGLE
My daddy gets the turkey from the woods. He shoots it. My mama cleans it with water and her hands. I know she puts pepper, one spoonful and salt - the same, one drop of hot sauce. Cook it inside the oven for couple of minutes. It's ready when we get ready to get up. We take a little snooze or watch television. It's ready when the bell goes off.

TURKEY & CORN

By PATTY CHEVIS
My Mom and daddy buys a kinda little - a big turkey at Winn Dixie (I think). They put one quart gravy on it. It gets hot when they cook it cause we got new cabinets and two new ovens. Daddy put a new floor in like play bricks. Cook it until it's hot. It's ready - we eat it.

COCONUT PIE - ELVA CAKE

By CLARINDA ALCALAN
My mother and grandmother fixes them. You put a little bit red and so much white. Put it in a bowl, put the colors in it. Then they make an apple pie. They cook the cake in the oven about 20 minutes and they cook the pie in the oven 10 more minutes.

APPLE PIE AND TURKEY APPLE DUMPLING

By STEPHANIE KENNEDY
She cuts um apples first, she fries um. Then she fries the turkey, seven pounds, on the stove without no pan cause it's too heavy. Then she takes it off the stove. Then she cuts it and we put corn on it. Then we get duck and cut the meat out and put it all over the turkey. Then she gets a cook book. She puts some wheat salt and sugar and she goes out. It's ready in two minutes.

CHICKEN & GUMBO

By JENNIFER KINGSTON
My Maw Maw cooks the gumbo and mama fixes the chicken. Gumbo - she puts ham in it first, then she puts pickle juice in it then sausage. She cooks it at her house on Main Street, go by the curve where the men are working on the holes. She don't like by Kelly.

CORN-CARROTS-TURKEY

By HAROLD SAMPSON
My dad gets this big turkey. He puts vegetables in it carrots four, he puts water three on it. He barbeques it inside. It's ready in five minutes.

TURKEY

By SCOTT SMITH
It got two grammas. The one who lives at the apartment cooks the turkey. I eat there. My momma buys it. Maw Maw puts salt on it. She cooks it on the stove for bout three munitis.

TURKEY

By JIMMY WILLIAMS
Mom gets some sauce (chicken sauce) on the turkey. She puts it in the oven to cook about 20 degrees about 30 minutes. It's finished when we are finished in the room to put the stuff away. So I can get a dog or a parakit, a pony or a house. I have to make a choice.

TURKEY

By TONYA CHEVIS
My mama usually fixes it and one time my maw maw Niolet fixed it. Maw maw put onions in the rice. I think she makes some corn. She puts it on the stove all night. She cooked it when I spend the night. I think it was Saturday. It was juicy, I don't know what kind of juice. My paw paw could have gone in the woods to kill it.

Drama Club rated superior

The St. Stanislaus High School Drama Club received superior ratings at a recent South Mississippi High School Festival in Hattiesburg. The two-day festival was at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Students representing St. Stanislaus were Justin Martzell, Tom Sharkey, Andy Boudreaux, Scott Weidie, Bill Berry, Bruce Ouellette, Mitzi Plessala, Jeanne Boudreaux, Ann Schott and Mary Theresa Hickman.

Faculty sponsor and director was Dan Griffon.

SSC presented a one-act play entitled 'Fool's Paradise.' Their play was awarded a superior rating in competition with 13 other schools.

Justin Martzell and Mitzi Plessala were named to the all-star cast, and Griffon was named the best director.

The students from St. Stanislaus were awarded the highest trophy for a group contributing most to the festival, and were chosen to represent the 'Southern District' in the state festival in January.

NAMED TO ALL-STAR CAST—Justin Martzell, left, and Mitzi Plessala recently represented St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis at the S South Mississippi High School Drama Festival. Martzell and Plessala will participate in the state festival in January.

HALF-PRICE ON HBO INSTALLATION!

IF YOU DON'T HAVE CABLE TV, YOU'RE GOING TO MISS OUT ON THE FREE HBO MAGNIFICENT MOVIE MARATHON.

It's on Dec. 6th & 7th. And only cable subscribers can get it. A 2-day marathon of free blockbusters from HBO—'10', 'Superman: The Movie', 'Rocky II', 'Every Which Way But Loose' and 'The Main Event'. And much more. Without a single cut or commercial to slow things down.

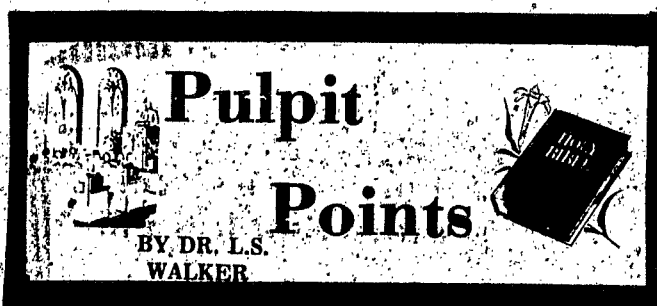

There's never been a better time to sign up for cable TV than right now. So don't miss out. Cable gives you a much wider choice of channels, crystal-clear reception with beautiful, vibrant color. You won't miss your old rabbit ears, ugly antennas or the constant TV adjustments either.

Don't wait, race to the phone and call now.

CABLE PEOPLE DON'T MISS OUT.

By L. S. WALKER, D.D.
Somewhere along the way in this rambling discourse somewhat incoherent reflections I may ask, "Who owns that cluttered pocket?" "And I, brethren, could not speak unto you as unto spiritual, but as unto carnal, even as unto babes in Christ, I have fed you with milk, and not with meat for hitherto ye were not able to bear it, neither yet are ye able. For ye are yet carnal: for whereas there is among you envying, and strife, and divisions, are ye not carnal, and walk as men? For while one saith, I am of Paul; and another, I am of Apollos; are ye not carnal?" - I Corinthians 3:1-4.

Somewhere between the age of accountability and the mortuary there exist a peculiar collection of excuses with skin usually referred to by kindly ministers as 'Weak Church Members.'

It has been said that a weak church member's pocket or purse contains last year's building fund, or special emphasis pledge card, three pencils (all broken), a list of several year's resolutions (also all broken), an offering envelope containing one dollar, a check to the bank for a $200 car payment, an unused Rally Day button, three sticks of chewing gum, a score card, a season ticket to the symphony concerts, four of the minister's call cards, a lodge dues receipt, a ball game ticket stub and a six month old church bulletin.

A weak church member, which Paul at Corinth, called unspiritual or carnal, hates older ministers, younger ministers, religious fanatics, stewardship sermons, long sermons, handshaking, missionaries, Bible school, invitations, visitations, stewardship campaigns, cold churches, hypocrites, evangelistic churches, pastors who check on their whereabouts, offering and other weak Church members.

Being carnal as he is, a weak church member is an excuse in clothing, an alibi with golf clubs in the back seat, or a boat and trailer loaded with fishing tackle hooked to the back end of his car, indifference begging off, laziness complaining of a bad cold, sin flirting with the world, prevarication promising to be in church next Sunday, ignorance letting someone else do what needs to be done, critic, advisor, expert on pastoring and preaching, joiner, and in his own opinion, a real Christian.

Sometimes mothers lie for them, fathers play golf or fish with them, wives stay at home with them, husbands agree with them, church workers go insane because of them and preachers pray for them.

Weak, carnal-minded church members are found most everywhere - in all churches, in the minister's hair, at the beach, on the golf course, in bed, in front of a television set, on the highway, in religious discussions, in church on Easter Sunday, on the telephone calling the pastor or some other minister when trouble strikes, mowing the lawn, washing the car and planning what to do next Sunday.

'Ah, but when a minister comes home at 11 p.m. after a round of calls and conferences, committee meetings, invocations, speeches, sermons, visitation, weddings, funerals; when he's tired, aching, discouraged, sleepy, fed up, worried, irritated, nervous; his feet hurt; his eyes pain; his head throbs; his back aches, and his hair is thinning; he's ready to move on to another pastorate or leave it all and go into insurance, brick-laying or plumbing - ah, his frustrations leaves and he's a new man when the telephone rings and the voice of that weak church member on the other end of the line whispers those three, little words - "See you Sunday!"

Ever heard of this kind of church member? The Apostle Paul did!

For the Holidays...

Raisins in Good Supply

Tiny Raisin Apple Loaves are perfect for holiday gifts.

With the holidays fast approaching, the good news from California is that there will be a bumper raisin crop for every cooking and baking need. It won't be Christmas without raisins to add delectable, fruity flavor and chewy good texture to traditional holiday treats.

This year, make batches of Tiny Raisin Apple Loaves, appealing golden-crust quick breads that bake in mini-loaf pans. With raisins in the batter, these little loaves will maintain their moistness and freshness. The combination of apples and raisins is a flavor classic that is guaranteed to please. These breads are quick to make, too, so you can have plenty on hand for special holiday meals or last-minute gifts.

Additional raisin recipe ideas can be found in a colorful booklet, "Raisins—Everything Under the Sun" is a collection of 88 family-favorite raisin recipes. For a copy, send 25 cents in coin for postage (per copy) to: "Raisins—Everything Under the Sun," California Raisin Advisory Board, P.O. Box 5172, Fresno, California 93755.

TINY RAISIN APPLE LOAVES
1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened	1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup sugar	1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs	1/2 teaspoon soda
3 tablespoons milk	1 1/2 cups peeled grated apple
1 teaspoon lemon juice	1 cup chopped raisins
2 cups flour	1/2 cup chopped nuts

Cream together butter, sugar and eggs until light and fluffy. Beat in milk and lemon juice. Sift together dry ingredients; stir into creamed mixture just until moistened. Stir in apple, raisins and nuts. Spoon batter into 3 greased 6 x 3-inch loaf pans. Bake at 350 degrees 40 to 45 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Makes 3 mini-loaves. Note: Batter may be baked in 1 (9 x 5-inch) loaf pan. Increase baking time to 1 hour.

SIGNS OF FRIENDSHIP — Bob (Bob McGrath) teaches four young visitors to 'Sesame Street' sign language words to help them communicate with playmates who are deaf or hard of hearing. The youngsters, victims of Down's Syndrome, are among the mentally and physically handicapped children who will be regular guests on Sesame Street during its 12th season, which is now airing on the Mississippi Educational Television Network. Their appearances will help preschoolers to better understand both the abilities and special problems of their handicapped friends. 'Sesame Street' can be seen at 11:30 a.m., Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and at 4:30 p.m., every weekday on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Protect Your Home While On Vacation

When you go on vacation, the only things you want to worry about are how much rest and relaxation you're going to get. You can do that if you make your home as burglar-proof as possible before you leave.

According to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, there now are more than 3 million burglaries a year in the United States. That's one every 10 seconds. But there are things you can do to minimize the possibility of burglary while you are away.

A home that looks occupied will likely be bypassed by a burglar for one that looks unoccupied. So leave some lights on when you're gone. Several timers should be set to turn your lights on automatically before dusk and off at normal bedtime hours. Another thing: Burglars are nervous about two-story homes that have lights burning on both floors.

You should stop all deliveries of mail, milk and newspapers. Arrange to have a trusted neighbor watch your front door and pick up anything that might be delivered in your absence such as advertisements or packages.

Before attempting to enter your home, some burglars will try to check your presence, by telephone (and will hang up as soon as you answer, or will give you a "sorry wrong number").

In many areas of the country, phone companies now offer "call forwarding," a service that can prevent burglaries. You now can request that in your absence your calls ring at the home of a friend, relative or neighbor. This would be an intruder has no way of knowing this, and will assume that when the phone is answered, somebody is at your home.

Allstate Insurance Companies suggest the following additional tips on how to burglar-proof your home and valuables:

- Make your home sound occupied by having a radio turned on and off by a timer during your absence.

• Drapes fully closed give a deserted look to a home. Leave your drapes slightly parted.

• Keep valuables away from the windows to avoid unnecessary temptation for burglars.

• Have lawns mowed and yard-work kept up. The point is, make your home look inhabited.

• While you're gone, have a neighbor put a few bags of trash in front of your home on pickup day.

Allstate suggests you list the serial numbers and makes of all your radios, television sets, small appliances, and mark your sporting equipment and other items with your social security number.

Also list securities and other valuable papers. Allstate agents have inventory forms to simplify your record keeping.

MARLENE BY STEICHEN — This portrait of Marlene Dietrich by master photographer Edward Steichen is but one of many of his photographic masterpieces shown in 'Steichen... A Century in Photography' at 10 p.m., December 10, on the Mississippi Educational Television Network. The 60-minute film portrait traces his life and works.
